a finer Grain. I have been at the Gentlemans Houſe, of whom I have this Account, and you may look upon it as Authentick.

Coupar of Angus, Tours,
March 15. 1712. P. BLAIR.

VII. The Dimenſions of ſome Human Bones, of an extraordinary Size, which were dug up near St. Albans in Hertfordſhire. Communicated by Mr. W. Cheſelden, Surgeon, F. R. S.

THE Circumference of the Scull, according to its length, is 26 Inches; and according to its breadth, 23 Inches.

The greateſt Diameter of each Os Innomminatum, is 12 Inches.

The Left Os Femoris is 24 Inches long, having only one (and that the great) Trochanter. The Right Os Femoris is 23 Inches long, having three Trochanter Proceſſes.

Each Tibia is 21 Inches long.

If all the Parts bore a due proportion, this Man muſt have been eight foot high.

Theſe Bones were found near an Urn, inſcrib'd Marcus Antoninus, in the Place of the Roman Camp near St. Albans.

LONDON: Printed for H. Clements at the Half-Moon, and W. Innys at the Princes-Armes, in St Pauls Church-yard; and D. Brown without Temple-Bar.